SEEDS

Since our founding in 2016, We Are the Seeds has prioritized the following: celebrate and educate about contemporary Indigenous arts and culture, create opportunities for Indigenous artists, and provide positive and accurate representation for Indigenous peoples. In the six years Seeds has been in existence, staff has joined the organization in the areas of programming, marketing, development, and production. Together we have produced over 150 cultural events, programs, and workshops that celebrate and support Indigenous arts and artists throughout North America.

Check out the first season of our podcast “From Here, With a View” centering Indigenous perspectives on life, art, and everything in-between. Available on Apple Podcasts and all your favorite podcast platforms.
